IN ALL THINGS EXCELLENCE

Kentucky State University Viewbook
We are delighted you have expressed an interest in Kentucky State University, “Our Home on the Hill.” Kentucky State University is recognized as one of the finest Historically Black Colleges and Universities in the United States. Unmatched in its beauty, diversity, environment, and charm, KSU has a rich history and tradition of academic excellence. Our students enjoy the educational benefits of one of the best undergraduate programs in the country.

The Kentucky State University Office of Admissions congratulates you on your academic achievements and wishes you the best. We extend a warm invitation for you to become a part of the Kentucky State University family. Enclosed you will find an admissions application and a wealth of information about KSU.

To learn more, visit www.kysu.edu. There you can apply for admission, check the status of your application, view academic majors, explore scholarships, schedule a campus tour, and discover the legacy of excellence at KSU.

If you are in need of financial support, you must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). You can begin the process now by applying online at www.fafsa.ed.gov. Remember, you do not have to wait for an admissions decision in order to submit your FAFSA. You may also be eligible for a scholarship awarded by the Office of Admissions. To determine your eligibility, you must submit an application for admission and receive an acceptance letter from Kentucky State University. We encourage you to complete the application as soon as possible to be considered for scholarships, financial aid, and on-campus housing.

If you would like to speak to an admissions counselor, contact us at (502) 597-6813 or admissions@kysu.edu.

Again, thank you for your interest in Kentucky State University. We look forward to you joining the Thorobred Family.

Sincerely,

Kentucky State University
Office of Admissions
Since its doors first opened on October 11, 1887, Kentucky State University has played a critical role in providing opportunities for students seeking access to higher education within the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The school’s founding is directly linked to a small cadre of teachers who were graduates of Berea College – at the time, the only institution of higher learning available for African Americans in the state. Their vision embraced the ideal that a school dedicated to the sole purpose of training teachers for the African American school-age population was both needed and could have positive and far-reaching effects. Led by John H. Jackson, a teacher in Lexington, the group petitioned legislators to lobby for a school. On May 17, 1886, a majority of the legislators voted affirmatively and passed an act that authorized both a charter and funds for the school. Jackson was later selected to become the school’s first president.

The State Normal School for Colored Persons became only the second institution of higher learning approved to receive state-level financial support from the Commonwealth. Several cities competed for an opportunity to host the school. The offer made by the capital city of Frankfort was accepted largely because it included the donation of a 24-acre tract of land on which the school could be built.

The journey from normal school to university spanned a period of 86 years, from 1886 to 1972, and included five name changes. In 1890, provisions under the Second Morrill Act enabled State Normal to acquire land grant status. This represented the first shift in curriculum design. The departments of agriculture, domestic economy, as well as mechanics and manual training, were added along with a new emphasis on the creation of new knowledge and public service. Gradually, in addition to offering the two-year teacher training program, the school expanded to include educational offerings targeting primary and secondary level students.

The impact of Booker T. Washington’s Tuskegee Institute philosophy, coupled with the broader progressive education movement, influenced Kentucky legislators to adopt the industrial education model for the school. The State Normal School for Colored Persons became Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute (KNII) in 1902. By the early 1930s, however, KNII began to re-emphasize a classical education. The institution transitioned to a four-year college in 1938, gained accreditation in 1939 through the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, and has since been approved for reaccreditation on a continual basis. The institution finally acquired university status and began offering graduate programs in 1972.

Today, with President Raymond M. Burse at the helm, Kentucky State University has evolved into the most diverse institution in the state. Moreover, KSU continues to embrace the ideals of its founders, a value for access to education and a commitment to service, along with its land grant programs and a strong liberal studies core that well prepares students for life in a global community.

GENERAL INFORMATION
Kentucky State University offers admission to Kentucky residents, out-of-state residents, and international students. Admission to the University is based upon criteria established by the Commonwealth of Kentucky’s Council on Postsecondary Education and University policies. In accordance with its mission, Kentucky State University is obligated to identify the level of preparedness of the students it admits and establish appropriate policies that ensure accurate placement of students in programs that provide the greatest opportunity for success in their academic pursuits.

DEADLINES
Candidates may apply for admission as early as July 1. Priority applications are accepted through April 1. Candidates are notified of acceptance or denial within 72 hours of submission of a complete application including transcript(s), test score(s), and application fee. Applicants who wish to be considered for financial aid and scholarships should complete their applications by February 15.

ADMISSIONS PROCESS
Steps for applying to Kentucky State University:
1. Go to www.kysu.edu and click on Admissions.
2. Apply online (you will be able to check the status of your application online).
3. Submit your official high school transcripts.
4. Submit your ACT and/or SAT test score(s).
5. Pay the $30 application fee.

REQUIREMENTS
Our minimum requirements for admission to Kentucky State University is an 18 ACT score or 860 SAT score (math and reading) and a 2.5 cumulative grade point average. It is the policy of Kentucky State University not to discriminate against any individual in its educational programs, activities or employment on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, veteran status, age, religion or marital status. Preference is given to Kentucky residents at the undergraduate level; however, applications from out-of-state residents are accepted for all curricula.

Kentucky State University requires all incoming first-year students to provide scores from either the American College Test (ACT) or the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT-I). The higher score may be used for admission. These test scores are also used for placement in English, mathematics, and reading. In addition to the ACT/SAT, students must also have completed specific courses in their high school curriculum.

For more information on navigating the admissions process, contact the Office of Admissions at (502) 597-6813, 1-877-FOR-KYSU (1-877-367-5978), or admissions@kysu.edu, or by faxing information to (502) 597-5814.

Whatever your goals, KSU will provide you with the tools and insights to help you reach them. As a student, you will develop critical thinking and decision-making skills. With the help and support of your KSU family, you will find the very best within yourself.

Center for Academic Persistence and Success (CAPS) ensures each first-year student receives personal attention to help perform at his or her full potential at KSU.

Academic Center for Excellence (ACE) staff provides personalized and group services to help KSU Students academically excel. Highly qualified peer tutors provide free homework assistance in math, English, and sciences. Peer tutors offer group study sessions in historically difficult courses to help students achieve academic success. Academic coaches offer personal appointments and workshops to help students successfully balance academics and social activities with study and time management tips.

Testing Services offers a wide range of professional testing services for students, faculty, staff, and the community. Services include, but are not limited to, online (internet) testing, independent learning, placement testing, national and university standardized tests, professional certification exams, and test preparation assistance and collaboration. The use of technology and test preparation guides provide opportunities that enhance student’s career and professional choices.

Finding Resources In Education for Nontraditional Students (FRIENDS) makes the nontraditional student’s transition to higher education easy and rewarding. FRIENDS is committed to providing an atmosphere conducive to the needs of KSU’s nontraditional and commuter student community. KSU’s expanding enrollment of adult learners compels the FRIENDS program to provide quality resources intended to help students become successful and knowledgeable individuals in their respective communities. In addition, the program works in cooperation with on-campus departments and community agencies, providing professional and life-skills workshops, valuable information, and opportunities for peer support.

Global Education supports KSU students, faculty, and administrators by providing opportunities to participate in exchange and study abroad programs, as well as other international educational experiences through various academic consortia.
TOP 10 THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT LIVING ON CAMPUS

10. Residence halls are considered a home away from home.

9. Start preparing six months in advance for moving on campus by creating a list of items essential to campus living.

8. Set aside extra money for room essentials such as bedding, carpet, and storage items.

7. Be familiar with the rules and regulations you will have to abide by in regards to living on campus.

6. The University offers various services to those who live on campus such as dining facilities, a state-of-the art athletic center, a health center staffed by a physician, nurse practitioner, and counselor, shuttle services to Wal-Mart, and career or personal counseling.

5. Learn to manage your time.

4. Residence halls are staffed with professional and student personnel who assist residents and manage the daily operation of the halls.

3. A wide variety of educational and recreational activities are sponsored by the residence hall staff for you to enjoy.

2. Prepare to live with a roommate who may be someone you have not met prior to moving on campus.

1. Stay focused!
Kentucky State University has seven residence halls—two all-female, one all-male, and four co-ed. Each of our residence halls are equipped with laundry facilities, a lobby area with television, vending machines, and a standard kitchen facility with a microwave. Individual rooms are air-conditioned and feature cable television outlets and internet access.

All residence halls are professionally staffed by a hall manager that directly supervises student staff. Both the hall manager and student staff work with student residents, and they monitor student conduct within the residence halls.

Full-time first-year and sophomore students are required to live on campus unless they meet one of the following exceptions:
1. Students who are veterans with at least two years of active military service.
2. Students who commute from the home of parents or legal guardian (within 50-mile radius).
3. Students who are married.
4. Students who are 21 years of age and older.

All newly enrolled first-year students, must submit an application for housing and a non-refundable $310.00 fee ($75 room reservation fee, $125 damage deposit/maintenance fee, $60 insurance fee, and $50 housing access control fee) before a housing assignment can be made. To receive a housing application, contact (502) 597-5951 or reslife@kysu.edu or visit the Office of Residential Life at www.kysu.edu.

Applicants may request specific residence halls or roommates; however, these requests cannot be guaranteed. Assignments are made on a first-come, first-serve basis according to the deposit receipt date. You will be required to sign a University Residence Hall Contract which outlines the conditions for student housing.
At Kentucky State University, your experience extends beyond the classroom. The diversity of campus activities affords opportunities for you to become involved in campus life.

The Office of Student Life provides a variety of programs and events to help students make the most of their college experience, including a game room in the Carl M. Hill Student Center. These programs and events are designed to promote extracurricular activities that continue to build upon academic efforts in the classrooms and laboratories. KSU encourages students to participate in social, cultural, intellectual, instructional, recreational, spiritual, and governance programs that serve as a partner and sustainer of the University’s mission in the delivery of a quality education.

You will experience personal growth as a result of participating in student life. Extracurricular activities at KSU include: service, social, and academic clubs; intercollegiate athletics; musical and performance groups; social sororities and fraternities; intramural sports; theatre; concerts, lectures, and convocations.

Prospective students and their families are encouraged to visit Kentucky State University and tour the residence halls and classroom buildings. Campus visits provide an opportunity to interact with current students and faculty as well as learn about our academic programs. Visitors will be able to obtain information about admissions requirements, scholarship eligibility, and social activities.

The sprawling campus and relaxed, friendly atmosphere at KSU will make you feel at home. With a 18:1 student-to-faculty ratio (the lowest among public universities in the state), you will feel comfortable in the classroom and receive the support needed to academically excel. The close-knit environment is not limited to classes. KSU is a student-centered learning community, embodied with caring faculty, staff, mentors, and peer mentors awaiting your arrival to help you every step of the way to graduation.

KSU invites visitors to the campus throughout the year. Members of the Student Ambassadors lead our campus tours, and our Admissions Counselors conduct information sessions. To receive a more complete experience, we recommend campus tours be scheduled at least one week in advance.
