| 100 | I think the administration needs to hold teachers accountable when they are abusing their position. I had a situation where my teacher did not communicate for a full month on blackboard, and it was an online course. Ultimately, we ended up having to take an incomplete in the class. The following semester, he did not communicate with us for the first 4 1/2 weeks of the semester. He then began scheduling meeting times for this online class during the time period of some of the students' other classes. He received no consequences. This is what I mean when I say, "the teachers need to be held accountable when they are in the wrong." | May 2, 2012 12:07 PM |

| 3 | NaTasha Lacey should not be allowed on campus, AT ANY TIME!!!!!! | Jun 7, 2012 2:40 PM |
| 4 | I wish the experience was better. Not too many people on this campus care about the studenrs. I will say, there are many people that I have encountered that really do and I am grateful for them. But others who got angry when we weren't happy were unfair. We pay for our education and some people like me will have to pay for 10 years to get our loans paid off. It is imperative to treat the students like that. Pretend they are all working hard for their education and that it comes with a cost. We would LOVE that. | Jun 4, 2012 1:47 PM |
| 5 | parking issues | Jun 4, 2012 12:35 PM |
| 6 | This could be a great University, i think that by hiring employees that have the student's concerns in mind would help this university grow in many ways. I think that the atmosphere the employees create will effect the attitudes of the students. Look into more prgorams that help students prepare before college. There are too many students taking remedial courses. I would also advise that students go through one on one peer counseling about financial obligations with current students. The transfer rate is extremly too high . | Jun 4, 2012 10:20 AM |
| 7 | insurance provided through the school could be better especially if it is true that the cost is going up because it doesn't really cover anything | Jun 1, 2012 3:49 PM |
| 8 | Take more interest in your students and hire new instructors that have the patience who are willing to work with students to ensure their success in actual learning and not just a pass or fail grade. The instructors should not over load students with work that they aren't putting on their test and quizzes and they should make sure all students get an accurate study guide with information pertaining to the test or quiz so students will study what they need to instead of studying useless information. | Jun 1, 2012 2:21 PM |
| 9 | Stronger advertising! I would like to see more KSU commercials on television along with ads in publications. | Jun 1, 2012 11:09 AM |
| 10 | Staff, particularly in the ASB building need to take more pride in their jobs and act more professional when it involves the students. The stress is something I could have done without. | May 31, 2012 3:43 PM |
| 11 | There needs to be more professionalism in the classroom by professors and students. Too many students come in with an immature mentality and are very disruptive to the rest of the classroom and professors allow for the disruptive nature of these students to happen. Also, the athletics departments is run completely unprofessionally and does not adhere to the high level of competition that it should be at the NCAA division 2 level. | May 31, 2012 3:14 PM |

| 16 | Parking availably, fees charged to students such as homecoming and activity fees- I was a non-traditional student raising a family and was charged for activities that I did not participate in I was already charged an extra fee for being a nursing student and charged for living off campus and the charge for the health insurance I was unaware of and did not receive any information on it until it was too late so I also had to pay an extra 500 plus dollars for something that I didn't use or need- I had private insurance but more importantly I was unaware that I even had access to this and still had to pay for it. Also there were staffing issues in the last semester - Spring 2012 that caused more stress on already very stressed nursing students however the remaining staff that was available did a FANTASTIC job given the situation and added responsibilities that were given. Also there was some confusion at the begining of Fall 2011 semester with my account and was unable to register for a need class for my next degree that I plan on returning to KSU for, when the change to the new system my transcripts were lost and I was added as a foreign student the delay caused me to not get into a class I wanted to take. Overall great university I did recomend this program to friends and have two starting in the fall and two that plan on starting next year! I will also be returning to KSU for another degree and if grad school is offered for my program of choice then I will definitely be returning as well for it. | May 14, 2012 12:35 PM |

| 24 | As I leave this memorable college, many of the things I would have liked to see implemented are already in the works, eg More business activities in the school of business like a retail store. This gives students an opportunity to have hands on training while learning. The school of business building had some maintanance issues but that is no longer a problem, neither is running water in the fountains. Things are looking up for the school of business. | May 3, 2012 3:06 PM |

| 29 | Level of difficulty for a Master's program was not adequate. Do not feel as if I was challenged enough by the classes in the program. Books used in some of the classes were used by surrounding high schools for FRESHMAN classes. | May 3, 2012 9:54 AM |
| 30 | Initial process for registering for class, process for financial and bursar needs improvement. Too many processes. The hours of the cashier's office needs to be later for commuter students. Cashier's office should not be closed for lunch, someone should be there at all times during the office hours. | May 2, 2012 2:54 PM |
| 31 | The Whitney Young program has opened my eyes to the world and really has shown me where my life must head next. The value of a liberal education is priceless. I believe that a long standing staff that the Whitney Young program embodies was an absolute pleasure to learn from. I am a better person because of them. | May 2, 2012 8:48 AM |
| 32 | I just want to say that in one incident I had a campus police office, a white male and I being a white female, be rude to me for no reason. Situation being that I was waiting at a crosswalk and the police car being in thr road. I was waiting for the police car to go as he was driving. Instead he blaers his horn at me to make me go. I consider that HIGHLY unprofessional and think that respect towards students along with saftey standards should be priority. Also I think the parking for comuter students is ridiculous. | May 1, 2012 1:43 PM |
| 33 | I was statisfied with overall KSU, except for some minor things that could be improved upon. Financial aid needs to have people who listen to the person and don't look at everyone coming in like a number or another complaint. I recently | May 1, 2012 1:07 PM | experienced a situation where one of my classmates was treated unfairly, she did all her work on her own and was told that she failed. But when other students who had failed went to the dean they were allowed to continue on in their studies. I have an issue with the teacher stating rules and preaching them everyday until the last weeks and then she gives special treatment to those who came to complain that they failed and were allowed to pass when a student who did everything on her own and didn't cry wolf was told that she failed. This not a working area and it doesn't show confidence in the program or the institution. Either stick to the rules or break them for all but don't play favoritism to those who didn't do the work!

| 46 | Honestky in my most humble tone, I feel that KSU really should consider an entirly new faculty as far as professors. They've become to friendly and personal with the sutudents which draws away from the true priority at hand. There needs to be much more emphasis placed on the means of quality education being provided to the students that they can carry | Apr 26, 2012 12:42 PM |

| 51 | In order for this institution to thrive there has to be a better conection between upper level administration and the administration students are in contact with. I love this university because of the rich culture and quality of education I have recieved, but there are many minor problems that often over shadow the greatness within this institution. | Apr 25, 2012 1:50 PM |
| 52 | Although I believe that KSU is an great institution of higher learning, there are just a couple things that we can improve upon, with that being more events for students to get more involved. Many students are treated with disrepect at this first and crucial step upon entering the university and get more hassle, stress, and run-arounds than are necessary or helpful.
