1	Kentucky State University is an excellent college for young black student, but needs some improvements. The campus life needs more acativities, parties and the student services needs to be more informational and organized.	Jul 17, 2013 3:14 PM

8	Have a higher standard for the children you let into this university, they can't be coddled and if you are going to allow someone in that has a 14-17 ACT keep track of what they are doing. Cause if they aren't helping the school by going to their classes or their sports practices than why are they here?	May 10, 2013 12:25 PM
9	maybe letting students take classes only in their field, basic english and math. I think the school should cut classes that does have to do with field at all.	May 10, 2013 8:40 AM
10	n/a	May 9, 2013 11:21 AM
11	Hire business professors in the business department that care about teaching their students and not how much they're getting paid. I wanted to go to class to learn, not to listen to professors complain about administration	May 8, 2013 4:37 PM
12	please aware students about education problems dealing with any important test before they have taken them.	May 8, 2013 2:15 PM
13	Building campus morale would be very essential to future success	May 8, 2013 2:04 PM
14	Bathrooms should always have toilet paper in bradford hall. There has been times in which the bathroom went a whole week with no paper towels. The womens restroom in bradford hall also needs a ventilation system because there is always a continous stinch or musty smell. Very embarrassing for visitors to experience.	May 8, 2013 12:10 PM
15	I wrote above that KSU is not a good value, which is true in general, but I received a very generous scholarship which was the reason I remained here despite the lower quality of education. I am grateful for that. I reiterate that the gravest issue that needs to be addresses is the expertise and competence of professors; although I of course had several excellent instructors here, I also had a number that were completely unqualified in every respect except for their possession of a graduate degree.	May 7, 2013 4:11 PM
16	Strive to please the students, and not personal business or network	May 7, 2013 3:57 PM

21	more professor that care about students like Dr. Mara Merlino and Tierra Freeman. more chairman like Robert Lancaster.	May 3, 2013 11:28 AM
22	The administration needs to allow the faculty room to work. While integrating technology is a great thing and is very important in many classroom settings, upper level mathematics courses have no need for a "smart board" and forcing professors to use them while getting rid of a chalk board only takes away precious time for learning and spends it instead in the fruitless pursuit of "looking good" for PR. The school needs to do more to hire the best mathematics faculty possible. The current faculty is great, but there are too many professors who are leaving that the university should do anything and everything to keep, and there are plenty of professors who would love to work here, but due to the offered salary, cannot. Money needs to be provided for student research. There is plenty of research monies available to students in the field of biology, agriculture, etc... but as a student in mathematics, my research has not been supported by the University, only by my professor.	May 3, 2013 11:00 AM
23	The school needs to build relationships with students during there early college years in oppose to when we are finish. The school also needs to find ways to meet the needs of students who arn't involved in any organizations, teams, clubs ect., just going to obtain a degree.	May 2, 2013 2:55 PM
24	KSU is a good school, but it did not challenge me like I thought College was going to challenge me. I feel completely unprepared to go out into the work field. my classes didnt really teach me anything. If someone asked me what have I learned I wouldnt have an answer for them.	May 2, 2013 2:18 PM

26	I love my institution	May 1, 2013 3:56 PM
27	Kentucky State needs to work on organization. Also, better professors. Proffessors here at Kentucky State do not challenge us students at all. One thing KSU taught me waw how to survive in the real world.	May 1, 2013 3:50 PM

32	More student activities that would engage students to participate on campus, including educational activities.	May 1, 2013 1:09 PM
33	Advisors should be more informed on required classes to avoid enrolling students in classes they do not need to take. The bookstore staff and manager are unprofessional and rude most of the time. It was disappointing not being able to go to New Orleans this year!	May 1, 2013 1:07 PM
34	I feel that the campus morale needs to improve, along with the financial office being effective with students concerns, also the process to graduate needs to be improved, by not waiting two weeks before graduation about graduation packets, cap and gown etc.	May 1, 2013 11:29 AM
35	The staff at financial Aid are extraordinarily unhelpful. Throughout my four years here they have continuously made mistakes with my balance, they have over charged me or under charged me, and they NEVER answer their phones, nor do they return the phone messages. The majority of ASB 3rd floor is generally unhelpful.	May 1, 2013 11:20 AM
36	The attitudes of some of the employees in the Busars office and in the testing center need to be addressed. Overall the experience here was a good one.	May 1, 2013 9:45 AM
37	Please Please! work on organization!	Apr 30, 2013 2:57 PM
38	I feel that the students and faculty should have a better rapport with one another.	Apr 30, 2013 12:30 PM
39	Ksu needs to have a set requirement for entering this university. I understand that this is a second chance institute but some standards need to be set. the staff and faculty need to work more with helping students achieve their best.	Apr 30, 2013 11:42 AM
40	I think it is important to make sure there are enough professors/advisors available per major. And as I have stated before to the President, herself, it is important to make sure that the customer service throughout all departments is on point and professional.	Apr 30, 2013 11:42 AM
41	To improve KSU in the future, finances need to be prioritized. Think of the students before building unnecessary structures. You also have to give back to the excellent and deserving instructors.	Apr 29, 2013 4:00 PM
